Dear chamber music lovers,

We are delighted to share our 2021/22 season with you. As we prepare to start a new season this fall, it is essential in a time such as the one in which we live, to hope and to look ahead. To meet again, through the reunion of artists and the public. Together with you.

Music and culture have an important role to play in our lives. Music is a living art form, constantly evolving in our relationship to each composer and work. Music helps make sense of our busy lives and the world in general. Above all, music is a shared experience. And we feel privileged to present to you a season of chamber music with some of the brightest artists of the new generation of classical music.

Celebrating the centenary of Camille Saint-Saëns, we open the season in September with Trio Zadig in an evocative program of Rameau, Liszt and Saint-Saëns. The connection? The works of Rameau and Liszt have been reimagined for piano trio by Saint-Saëns. In November, we welcome the Hermès Quartet for the first time in a program based on the intensity and beauty of Janáček's « Intimate letters » and Schubert's « Death and the Maiden ». For our third series, pianist Clément Lefebvre, violinist Shuichi Okada, and cellist Gauthier Broutin present a program of two exquisite trios by Mozart and Brahms. In January 2022, we welcome the cellist Marie Ythier, flautist Samuel Bricault, and pianist Maroussia Gentet in a creative project: Schumann « re-imagined » around Schumann's Kinderszenen, op 15 (Scenes from Childhood), which has been transcribed for flute, cello and piano by French composer Tristan Murail. In April, the Trio Atanassov will be joined by Anne Solveig Weber and Manuel Vioque-Judde to perform two heroic masterpieces of the repertoire: the piano quintets of Brahms and Schumann. Finally, to conclude our season, the Hanson Quartet will present an exhilarating program to launch the summer season: works by Beethoven and Bartók.

We hope you that you will be able to join us for a season that promises many beautiful and unforgettable moments.
